DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 18-30, 36-40, 46-47, 78-90, 96-100, and 106-107 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 3/11/05.
2. Applicant's election with traverse of Species A, claims 1-17, 31-35, 41-45, 48, 60-77, 91-95, 101-105, 108, and 121-136 in the reply filed on 3/11/05 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that no generic claims were identified. Applicant believes there are generic claims and allowance of any of these generic claims should result in examination of additional species B, C, D, I, and J. This is not found persuasive because the species are mutually exclusive and patentably distinct from one another and are disclosed as separate embodiments by the applicant.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-17, 31-33, 41-42, 48, 60-77, 91-93, 101-102, 108, and 121-136 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roozeboom et al (US6047107).

Roozeboom et al discloses a system/method for heating/cooling a treatment object via selective reflectivity comprising a heating arrangement (9) for heating object via radiated energy wherein heat source emission spectrum is different from emission spectrum of the object (column 4, lines 47-64), a chamber defining means (15, 17) for use in exposing object to radiated energy such that a first and second fraction of radiated energy are incident on a wall (3, 15, 17) and wall is configured for responding in a first way to first fraction and responding in a second way to a second fraction of radiated energy (column 4, lines 47-64), wall is configured to reflect and absorb (column 2, lines 16-31; column 3, lines 30-40), wall includes an inner layer that responds in a second way (15, 17; 2, 4, 6, 8, 10; Figures 1-2) with a thickness from 1 nm to 1.5 mm (column 2, lines 59-62), walls are metallic (column 5, line 42), inner layer includes aluminum oxide and titanium oxide (column 4, lines 4-7, 12-15), inner layer includes a polymer (column 3, lines 55-65) and a glass filler (column 3, lines 66-67) that modify the selective reflectivity (column 3, lines 49-54), wall includes a single layer (15, 17), at least two layers, or a thin film stack (2, 4, 6, 8, 10) directly attached to one another (Figure 2), and a wall arrangement covers at least 20% of total surface area (Figure 1).

Roozeboom et al discloses all of the recited subject matter except walls which reflect at least 60% and more than 75% of heat source radiated energy and absorbs at least 60% and more than 75% of object radiated energy, aluminum walls, and walls having a surface roughness. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have included walls which reflect at least 60% and more than 75% of heat source radiated energy and absorbs at least 60% and more than 75% of object radiated energy, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In addition, aluminum walls and walls with a surface roughness are conventional and well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have included aluminum walls and a surface roughness on the walls as a means to heat/cool the walls more uniformly.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 34-35, 43-45, 94-95, and 103-105 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
